Studio tour rebrands

The Haliburton County Studio Tour has rebranded as The Studio Tour - Haliburton Highlands and launched a new logo.

The change positions the popular attraction as "the" tour in the province.

"We've worked through the repositioning and rebranding process with our tour members and the County of Haliburton's tourism department over the past several months," said Cathy Taylor, chair of The Studio Tour, in a press release.

"Crystal Image Studio brought our vision to life and we feel we have a fresh, reinvigorated logo to enter into our 32nd year. In addition to the rebrand, we've also launched a sponsorship program for the first time ever."

Haliburton County Development Corporation provided financial support for the initiative.

Thousands of visitors flock to the Highlands each fall over two weekends to check out artists on the tour, with an eclectic mix of art on offer.

New Horizons funding available

The New Horizons for Seniors Program (NHSP) 2019-20 has started its call for proposals for community-based projects that will help seniors stay active, engaged and informed. The application period will continue until June 21, 2019.

The NHSP is a federal grants and contributions program whose goal is to support projects that help improve the well-being and quality of life of seniors and foster social inclusion and engagement of Canadian seniors in all aspects of society. The projects are led or inspired by seniors who are making a difference in the lives of others and their communities.

The program's community-based stream supports activities that engage seniors and address one or more of its five objectives: volunteering, mentoring, expanding awareness of elder abuse, social participation and capital assistance. This year, organizations are invited to apply for community-based funding under the NHSP's three national priorities:

- preventing elder abuse and fraud, including measures to reduce crimes and harms against seniors;
- supporting healthy aging in the community, addressing dementia, including community supports and intergenerational housing; and
- counteracting ageism in the workplace to promote labour market retention of seniors.

Organizations are eligible to receive up to $25,000 in grant funding. Organizations have the option of applying for a small grant of up to $5,000 under the community-based funding stream. This pilot is targeted to organizations that have not received funding within the last five years (including the fiscal year 2014 to 2015 NHSP Call for proposals).

For more information on eligibility and instructions on how to apply, visit https://www.canada.ca/en/employment-social-development/programs/new-horizons-seniors.html.

The Young Novelists to visit Haliburton

A long time in the making, the contemporary folk duo will finally make it to town

VANESSA BALINTEC
County Life Staff

The Young Novelists will be performing at the Haliburton Curling Club on Saturday, June 8, a gig that according to duo Graydon James and Laura Spink, has been close to five years in the making.

After getting in contact with the Haliburton County Folk Society and spending a few years on a waiting list, they were finally called in for a show. According to James, songwriter and frontman of the band, it was with the organization's support that everything could be arranged.

"It's kinda key in this day and age to have people who are really helping get musicians in front of audiences," said James.

After quitting their full-time jobs to perform across the U.S. and Canada, The Young Novelists have dedicated their time and work to their music. Three albums and numerous awards and nominations later, The Young Novelists have made a dent in the Canadian folk music scene since their inception in 2009.

Although part of a six-person band, James and Spink often take on duo projects and shows. Their latest album, in city & country, was created by the pair with help from several musicians, drawing inspiration from having lived in both cities and small towns.

The Young Novelists themselves are familiar with Haliburton. Spink, hailing from Peterborough, visited Haliburton growing up when travelling for her figure skating competitions. James visited Haliburton through travelling with friends, visiting cottages and recording music.

James said the show, which will feature songs from past albums but focus on their most recent album will help bring community together through music.

"These kind of shows, we find there's really wonderful audiences," said James, who plays the acoustic guitar during the duo's shows and in city & country. "The exact kind of shows that as an artist you want to be playing. You have the space and time to get behind the songs. That's sort of what folk music is about, right?"

On the topic of their folk music, however, James and Spink think it will be an emotional night.

"They're kinda sad songs," laughs James. "Sort of heartbreak, sad stories. For whatever reason, those songs are a little easier to write. But you don't want to leave people feeling sad. The underlying theme of in city & country is about community, where people find community and what that looks like. A sense of community and communing with each other."

"We talk about our relationship too," said James.

"It's something that can resonate with people," said Spink.

After focusing their energy full-time on their music, Spink, the lead vocalist, says they get the occasional fan who calls their journey "inspiring."

"You're gonna come and feel some feelings," said James about the upcoming show. "I feel like it's important to sometimes push yourself to go out and do that thing that gets you in touch with your community, your neighbours, your friends, and like-minded folk. For whatever reason, joining your voices in music together is a wonderful experience, and that's what I think would be the best part of coming out to a Young Novelists show."

Tickets will be available in advance. Members will be charged $20, non-members $25, and $30 at the door. Albert Saxby and Carrie Cooper will open the event, which will start at 7 p.m. To preview the band's music and learn more about the duo, visit theyoungnovelists.com.

Tickets can be purchased online at https://www.haliburtonfolk.com/ or by visiting Halco Electronics in Haliburton or On the Spot Variety in Minden.

Kate Campbell concert to launch film fundraiser

Tickets on sale now for gala concert in Haliburton raising money for short film, Boundless

Kate Campbell is embarking on her directorial debut with her new project Boundless, which she also wrote. She is launching a fundraising campaign starting June 3 in Haliburton with a gala concert. Boundless is a story of women pilots in the Second World War. /Photo courtesy of Kate Campbell

JENN WATT
County Life Editor

As Kate Campbell prepares to shoot her short film, Boundless, this summer, the writer/director is coming to her hometown of Haliburton to launch her fundraising campaign.

On Monday, June 3, Campbell is hosting an evening of music with award-winning jazz vibraphonist Nick Mancini at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion. The gala will include a red carpet complete with a step and repeat banner, photographer and special VIP tickets for those who want to continue to a party after the show.

Money raised will help Campbell take Boundless to new heights after spending years on research, writing and creating a short teaser for the project: historical fiction about women pilots in the Second World War.

"I shot a teaser last summer for the piece, which was just a fantastic experience," Campbell said in an interview. "We shot it in Los Angeles and some of it in Canada and some of it in Wisconsin at Oshkosh [which] has one of the largest aviation conventions in the world. That was one of my first tastes of directing."

Campbell is a woman of many talents; while she's the writer and director on Boundless, she's also an actor and singer. She recently appeared in films Gone Girl and Badsville, and released the EP i am that girl in 2016 as well as a collaboration with the Martini Kings called Smile.

She'll be combining her talents on June 3, which will include music, a conversation about her time in L.A. and work on Boundless, as well as a screening of the teaser.

"The journey [has been] almost 10 years of research, a lot of commitment, a lot of different paths it's been on," she said.

Campbell is eager to show the audience her progress so far and also wants to introduce them to the pilots who stepped into traditionally male roles during wartime. The lead character is a Canadian and the film is set in the U.S. While it's historical fiction, inspiration came from Campbell's grandmother, who was a pilot, though not in the war.

"It's time to celebrate these women, but also other women … still today only six per cent of all pilots are women. It's an important time," she said.

The film is about an older woman looking back at her life and the moments that defined her. Campbell said the theme is about liberation: how do you liberate yourself?

"Whether it's flying, whether it's following your heart or your passion or speaking the truth or how it gets you into trouble sometimes, you know? ... I think it's something we really have to give to ourselves, especially as women. It's not something we're meant to do alone."

Buck Productions is producing the project, which Campbell said could eventually become a mini-series or feature film.

The Haliburton concert will kick off a larger online fundraising campaign to fund this summer's shoot. Campbell said she has a goal of $50,000, which would be used to fund equipment, pilots, and proper crew.

Carrying such an ambitious project to fruition feels both natural and intimidating, she said.

"I think it's important to keep challenging ourselves and having just shot with the planes with the actors with all of the technical elements that we're working with even in that two minutes [of the teaser] that we created gave me a lot of confidence to understand what needs to happen and then it's not as scary as I think it will be," she said.

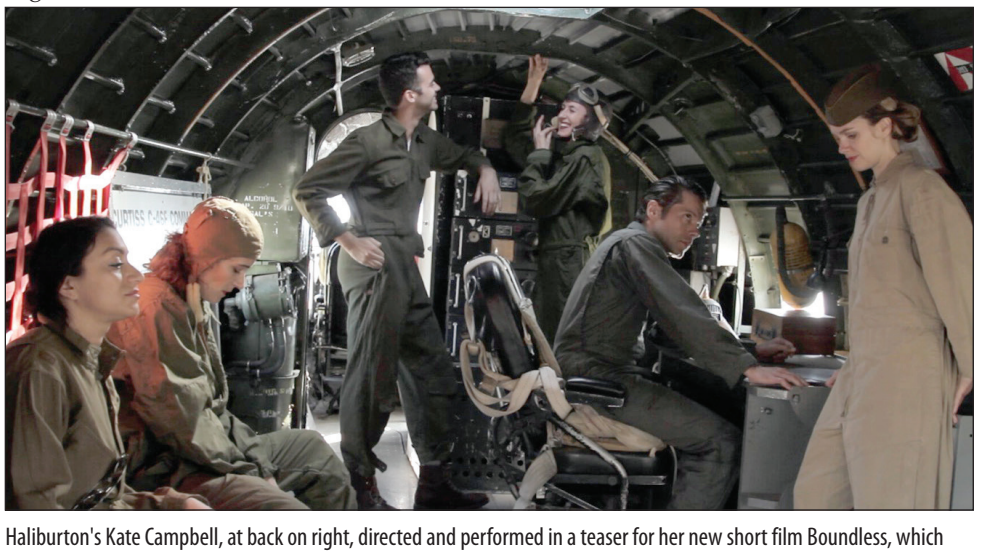
Campbell's interest in acting developed while growing up in Haliburton where she performed in Love Affair with Hollywood, Grease, and after attending Sheridan College, she returned for The Sound of Music.

A portion of the proceeds from the concert will be donated to the Haliburton YWCA for the rural safe space for women and children. The charity will have a booth set up in the lobby with more information.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. for guests to have fun on the red carpet and have their photo taken. The show starts at 7:30.

Campbell advises people to wear whatever they'd like. "I was hesitant to describe what people should wear. I want to leave it up to them. Coming from L.A., people literally wear anything. I will be dressed up. It's a fun excuse to get dressed up on a Monday night. There's no pressure. It's going to be a fun vibe; it's not going to be stuffy by any means."

You can find tickets online by going to www.katecampbellfilmmaker.com or at Transat Travel in Haliburton (705-457-3290), Sassy Digs in Minden or Boshkung Social in Minden. Tickets range in price from $30 (section 3) to $100 (VIP).



Haliburton's Kate Campbell, at back on right, directed and performed in a teaser for her new short film Boundless, which will be screened in Haliburton on June 3. The gala concert event is raising money to produce a short film, with shooting happening this summer. /Photo courtesy of Kate Campbell

Boulders of clouds rolling across Sky, readying to release pebbles of Rain.
I veer off the road onto the shortcut of path,
the rush of River propelling me forward, toward the figure that sits on the bank, packing her palette and paints away.
My eyes devour the feast of green sprouting from her canvas,
throbbing all around us,
brush strokes of grass bending like the blades beneath my feet, smears of branches birthing smudges of leaves,
like the trees erupting all around us.
The sliver of River frothing dollops of white, veins of light slinking across Sky,
as the real one begins to grumble above.
The painter's fingers stained with shades of earth and leaves,
as she swirls the light on the River's edge, blots a swatch of Sky.

The painting pulses and breathes, like Air that surrounds us, the path, where I stand, a slash of grey, swerving off
the painting, making me wonder where it leads, making me want to follow,
as the young painter's eyes peer up at me, questioning the beauty of her painting, pointing our flaws in perspective and depth, where all I see is the raucous glory of Spring that plants gladness into my Heart, as I absorb the energy of the painting, that invisible flicker she's ignited with her mind and hands, admiring her ease with a brush, sparking memories and dreams to stir within me, as the River flows past us, its current captured on the canvas, as she cradles the painting in the nest of her palms, her creation, fragile as freshly hatched birds, blaring their arrival in the world.
The painter tells me the painting is a gift but doesn't reveal who it's for.
I stand behind her, as the canvas of Sky begins to crack and she slides the painting into her rucksack, in the nick of time.
We part ways, the painter and I,
me, scurrying along the path that curves along the river, she, veering off the path onto a trail that's swallowed by forest, making me wonder where it leads,
like the path that swerves off her painting, whether she's going to deliver her gift, whether the path in the painting is real or imagined, leading her back toward that place where beauty and inspiration live.

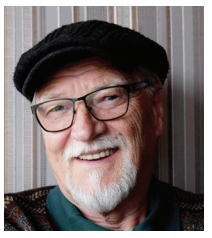
The fascinating life of Joseph Truss

Joe Truss on drums entertains a large audience at Music in the Park in Haliburton on July 12, 2016. /HUW MORGAN Special to County Life



GEORGE FARRELL
On Arts/Culture

JOSEPH (JOE) Truss is one interesting dude. Born in Trinidad in 1959, he grew up in Barbados, where by the age of 18 he'd decided to forgo further education in favour of becoming a professional musician. Truss quickly became experienced on keyboards, as a guitarist, and as a drummer, so it wasn't long before he hooked up with the Sand Pebbles, a band that became one of the biggest in the Caribbean.

The Sand Pebbles, with Truss on drums, achieved fame and success in the early 1970s as they travelled extensively throughout the Caribbean, and to gigs in major centres like New York and London. The band cut two albums, but like many groups who achieve early success, burnout was inevitable. "I became famous before I was really that good, and I became traumatized," Truss said recently.

Truss's personal fork in the road occurred in 1978 when he left the professional music scene due to early burnout. He became an entrepreneur instead, and by 1977 Truss had left Barbados and had moved to Ottawa to join the record company Treble Clef. He then got into the early computer scene with ComputerLand and also ran a number of computer stores in the Golden Horseshoe area. He was a corporate manager in the retail world of fashion and became a head hunter for business executives.

In 1990 Truss experienced a major life change when he met Stafford Beer who is the founder of a science called Management Cybernetics. It's a social organization specializing in social methodology. As director of development, Truss continues as part of that movement. And as if all that wasn't enough for any enlightened individual, Truss also found the time in 1994, to acquire his MBA from McMaster University.

By the age of 25, Truss was married and had moved to Ottawa. He remained with his first wife until 2001 when the couple separated. Truss moved around southern Ontario until 2006 when he and his current partner Christine Cullen, settled in West Guilford. They moved to the village of Haliburton in 2016. Truss said that he has "a daughter Ziska, who is 38, a four-and-a-half-year-old old grandson Zaiden, and five bonus grandchildren, courtesy of Christine."

Joe Truss who had morphed into an independent consultant, was not playing any music in a meaningful way, but he kept a small hand drum called a Doumbek, which became his constant travelling companion. "It kept me musically alive during corporate work," Truss explained.

When he was doing his corporate work Truss had the idea of using his drumming know-how as a tool for executive team-building experiences. This concept slowly evolved into the drum circles which many Highlanders have experienced through the Rails End Gallery in Haliburton, and through DrumFest, the annual happening in Head Lake Park.

In 2017, energized by these and other recent musical experiences, Truss began playing in bands again, and now he's the percussionist with local groups Fifth Business, Slinky and the Boys and our band, Cheeky Monkey. Another project which is dear to Truss's heart is his work recording his own songs that were created over a 50 year span, before they were lost in a fire. He's added six new songs to the originals, one of which he would like to record with Cheeky Monkey. It's been a pleasure getting to know Joe and I look forward to many more rehearsals and gigs together.

You can find out more about Joe's professional life through Facebook and LinkedIn.

The Brown, the Green

The tanned floor of the forest in early spring crackles and shifts as I walk, just finishing its job of feeding and protecting new growth seeking its food and shelter beneath the shrivelled dullness.
Soon, brightest green will leap through and over and above it, claiming its rightful place – the attention always given to new forest growth.
But the old – the old wrinkled and crinkling dry brown leaves are the source of the feast of green – dazzling my eyes, calling my whole being to smiles and thanks.
And relief.
Long though it be in coming,
Spring always arrives. In mind and heart, in earth and sky.

There'll Be Another Day

When times are tough, when things don't go your way
Don't whine, don't whimper, there'll be another day.
No weeping, no screeching, no ranting to the sky.
For that is too extreme, let angst and worry fly.
Dive into your depths, breathe deep and free your mind
There'll be another day of life you've redefined.
A time for peace, for joy,
when things will go your way
Be mindful and charge forth, your heart will light your way.

Sunlit Days

My spirit thirsts for sunlit days,
Magic mauve of morning light,
Twinkling myriad droplets adorning silky waves of grass,
Fragrances wafting, energizing, enlivening my soul.
Tranquil as a cool reflecting pool
Strong as an oak, soft as thistledown Vibrant as sun kissed dew, supple as the swaying willow,
Beneath the patient pines I wait…
Arms outstretched, to embrace the dawn.
A freshening breeze… the sweet scent of wildflowers, the heady musk of damp earth Intoxicating my senses, lightening my spirit.
Brisk currents of air push… pull,
I embrace a slender whispering maple,
We tremble and sway as one, eagerly anticipating this day.
Together we bend to the will of a bounteous universe.

Haliburton Home and Cottage Show back for 41st year

VANESSA BALINTEC
County Life Staff

This weekend marks the return of the Haliburton Home and Cottage Show, known for its unique vendors, hard-working volunteers, and ability to draw in thousands of people each year.

The event, sponsored by Haliburton Curling Club, features vendors from the county and across the province promoting anything needed for home and cottage life. Visitors can find expert advice and promotions for a variety of things that range from home decor and arts and crafts to landscaping, construction and car, truck, boat and ATV specialities.

With the help of 130 volunteers who help manage things like food sales and parking during the event, the Haliburton Home and Cottage Show will host over 130 exhibitors, with more than half being local businesses. Rick Ashall, the lead manager of the show, says as one of the largest home and cottage shows in Central Ontario, the show is expecting more than 3,000 visitors.

"For a small village, it's incredible," said Ashall. "You don't have to travel the entire county or broader to get advice or sales. A lot of people come out. "

According to Ashall, visitors have the chance to win draws held by select vendors and the Haliburton Curling Club. And same as last year, the show will help raise money for Food for Kids Haliburton.

Ashall says he's always taking feedback from visitors and vendors to improve the experience each year.

This year's event has a new, free doggie daycare service that will allow visitors with non-service dogs to drop off their pets with volunteers and businesses while they peruse the show.

"It's the steps we take as a volunteer organization that most shows wouldn't," said Ashall.

The show will be held at the A.J. LaRue Arena, Haliburton Curling Club and surrounding outside area at 730 Mountain Street with free parking available. Admission is $3 for adults and free for children under 12. The show will run all weekend long beginning on Friday, May 31 from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday's show will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday's show will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Ontario 55+ Summer Games is a celebration of active living

The Haliburton/Muskoka Ontario Senior 55+ District Summer Games, which are held from May 2 to June 20, bring together people 55 years of age and older for competition and camaraderie. The Ontario Senior Games Association 55+ support physical/mental activities, amateur sport and community development in the province.

The OSGA 55+ local district games are organized yearly for anyone in the area who is 55 years or older and interested in being active and enjoying some friendly competition. The games are open to all levels of experience.

There are a variety of events suited for almost everyone, including bid euchre, carpet bowling, duplicate and contract bridge, cribbage, crokinole, euchre, five pin bowling, pickleball, shuffleboard, tennis and prediction time walking 1.6 and 3 kilometre. This year golf will be held in September. A number of community centres and public locations host the events.

The Haliburton/Muskoka District convenors Donna and John Teravainen ran the bid euchre event at the Cardiff Community Centre on Thursday, May 2.

The five teams advancing to Gravenhurst for bid euchre finals in June are: first place finishers Glen Covert/Murray Wright of Cardiff; second place finishers Willie Cox/Jack Cox of Haliburton; third place finishers Doreen Covert/Trula Dagenais of Bancroft; fourth place finisher Marlene Bona/Bill Bona of Cardiff and fifth place finisher Sandra Brenham/Barry Brenham of Cardiff.

I looked around the room at the Minden Legion to see 44 people talking, laughing and enjoying playing euchre for the afternoon. Likewise at the Kinmount Legion, 48 people socializing while playing cribbage. To me, that makes volunteering very rewarding. The Ontario Senior Games 55+ is about active living, meeting new people and having fun.

WE DON'T BREW OUR BEER FOR THE AWARDS.

BUT HE DOES!

Our brewmaster, Andrew Kohnen, threw away a successful career in logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

You could call it dumb, but we call it destiny.

Lorne Johnson took on the task of organizing and overseeing this first log auction in Ontario.

Since mid-March, over 700 logs and wood oddities were accumulating in a gravel pit off Hwy. 118. A good crowd gathered last Saturday, including buyers from all over Ontario and neighbouring U.S. states, as
